Ten Foot Swells Hamper U.S. Pilot's Great Rescue Attempt

Whimpering Little Girl Saved First

By Don Huth
CLARK FIELD, PHILIP-PINES (AP)—Nine dazed people, their clothes in shreds, huddled under canvas on a raft tossed by 10-foot waves.
A frightened little girl
whimpering for her injured
mother . . .
A doll swept away by the angry South China Sea . . .
A CHINESE woman begging for water, then leaning back and dying in the arms of an American airman . . .
This graphic account was given yesterday by a U. S. Air Force pilot of the rescue—right under the nose of Red China—of those who survived the shooting down of a British airliner by fighter planes, presumably Communist.

While Capt. Jack T. Woodyard
told his story on return of his rescue plane here, two U. S. aircraft carriers with jet fighters operated off the scene near Hainan Island under orders to stay there while search was pressed for nine missing persons.

IN LONDON, a British Foreign Office spokesman said that a formal protest was delivered Saturday night in Peking over the attack on the airliner Friday off Red China's Hainan Island.

"It seemed to me they were trying to make damn sure there would be no survivors," Capt. Woodyard said in an interview.
This fitted with the account in Hong Kong of the ill-fated airliner's pilot, Capt. Philip Blown that "they shot us down with the intention of killing us."

CLARK FIELD officers praised the work of 34-year-old Capt.
Woodyard, of Washington, D. C., and his crew as one of the outstanding sea rescues in U. S. Air Force history.

While the SA16 Albatross, an amphibian, was on the way, it received a message from Hong Kong
that the Chinese Communist government at Canton had warned
military aircraft to stay away from the scene.
The Albatross kept right on going, Woodyard concedes "we didn't know at the time that the message from the Communists also said any military aircraft approaching the area would be shot down."

Woodyard's account gave this picture of the actual rescue:

A FRENCH Privateer plane out of Toulon, Indochina, was circling over the raft when the Albatross arrived. A flare it had dropped was still burning.

The seas were running high with 10 to 12 foot swells.

Woodyard set the potbellied SA16 down in the protection of a small island about two and a half miles from the raft at 1:05 p. m.
Friday. Then it taxied through churning seas.

"When we got away from the protection of the island, there were 10-foot swells. The wing tips were dipping into the water.

"WE MADE THE final approach with the engineer in the bow with a line and two men in the rear with another. People in the raft caught both lines. The seas were heavy and it was difficult to bring the raft up to the plane.
"We finally got alongside. At first we thought there were only three persons aboard. But then other heads started coming into sight. The injured were underneath canvases."

Six-year-old Valerie Parish, of Iowa Park, Tex., was hoisted in first. She was whimpering for her mother, Mrs. Leonard L. Parish, also saved but suffering from a broken collar bone.

"IT WAS WORTH my whole career to pull that little girl out,"
said radio operator Lawrence Rodriguez, 20, of Carpinteria, Calif.

After the little girl, a seriously injured Chinese woman was taken aboard. Mrs. Parish and others followed, the pilot, Capt. Blown last of all.

GREELEY, PA. (AP)—A motorcyclist was thrown 45 feet and injured fatally in an accident at 3:50 p.m. near here Saturday.
He was Robert Baker Jr., 17, of 49 Patterson St., Jersey City, N. J.,

Sudden Burst Of Rainfall Is Scattered

A SHORT and furious storm dumped a quarter of an inch of rainfall on Stroudsburg in less than 20 minutes at 5 p.m. yesterday.

Varying amounts of rain were also reported in most other Monroe County regions.

Stroudsburg weather observer
Pierre Lake said unofficial rainfall in the borough measured .24 of one inch. The rain began at 5 p.m.; stopped at about 5:20.

OTHER AREAS of the county apparently got less rain during the period. Residents of Snyder'sville and Brodheadsville said rainfall
there was "very light."

Barrett township had "nothing but a sprinkle," according to a resident of that area. Moderate rainfall was reported in the Mount Pocono-Switzerland area, however.

Weather observer Lake said the rainfall caused temperatures to drop rapidly in the borough. High for the day was 88 degrees, Lake said. Early morning temperature was 69 at 8 a.m. and the temperature at 9 p.m. was 65.

Lake also reported .05 inch of rain fell in Stroudsburg Saturday.

Broken Water Main Stirs Up Dry Citizens

By Leonard Randolph

SOME EAST Stroudsburg residents staged a bucket brigade yesterday afternoon—but the only motive was free water.

It all took place on S. Green
St. The occasion was a broken water pipe in the middle of the street.

Within minutes after the water began gushing and bubbling forth through the blacktop paving, dozens of Green St. neighbors began racing to the scene with buckets, washpails and every available container.

One of the big reasons behind the bucket brigade: for the past two months, East Stroudsburg has been under a rigid regulation prohibiting use of water for "outside purposes."

THIS MEANT—for the majority of borough residents, who abided
by the municipal water authority rule faithfully—that lawns, hedges and gardens went waterless to prevent a shortage.

On Green St., where the grass grew dustier and the hedges heavier with each passing day, the water pipe-break was like a heaven-sent surplus from the underground.

As men, women and children
raced from the middle of the street to their own homes, throwing the unusual extra water supply on lawns, a passing motorist got into the act.

"East Stroudsburg must have too much water," he yelled at borough councilman Charles Buentzli, in whose ward the break occurred.
"Think I'll move over here."

ONE GREEN ST. resident took advantage of the break to wash his car. First time it'd had a good wash job in weeks, he told bystanders.

The break occurred in front of the home of John Farley, 52 S.
Green. Farley—who knew the condition of the borough's water supply—saw the precious liquid spurting forth; called Streets Superintendent Henry Lesoine.

Lesoine came, looked at the break, told Farley it depended on whether the pipe was the borough's or a homeowner's in the matter of who should pay for the repair. Only thing to do, Lesoine told Farley, was to find out who owned the pipe; have it repaired.

If the pipe belonged to the borough the street commissioner said,
the borough would foot the bill.

FARLEY took another look at the asphalt-surrounded fountain;
went to call a plumber. By nightfall a plumber had promised to "come down and look the problem
over" today.

"In the meantime," Farley said,
"the homeowner apparently has to do the spadework. And the water goes right on bubbling down the street."

Although Farley agreed a lot of valuable water might go down the hill, overnight, there was a lighter side to the whole incident, he noted. As Lesoine inspected the pavement break, the neighborhood children had organized their own
"Enjoy yourself" movement.

DOWN THE STREET some enterprising youngsters had built a makeshift dam. Catching the water as it flowed down the gutter, the dam provided an excellent wading pool for the weather-weary. Including maybe a few oldsters who hadn't seen a running stream on a borough street for a number of years.

Lesoine reported the break had occurred in a "service line"—a pipe running from the water main to a private home. Loss of water from the broken pipe, he said, would not be great.

To get at the service line a hole
will have to be dug in the street, Lesoine said. Lesoine indicated heavy machinery would be required to get at the pipe. Repair work on the line will be done this morning, he said.

HARRISBURG (AP)—A plea went out yesterday that individual Republicans enlist in a drive to register 1,700,000 persons in Pennsylvania who are not on voting rolls.

If each Republican would go out and get one more person registered, this would soon be accomplished," said Miles Horst, GOP state chairman.

Mendes-France, Real Egghead, Embarks On New Plans For French Economic Reforms

By Harvey Hudson and Carl Hartman

PARIS (AP)—Pierre Mendes-France, the man who stopped the war in Indochina, is a political egghead from way back.

In France, that's no insult. But, even in France, Mendes-France is sometimes criticized as "too brilliant."

What Americans call eggheads, the French call an intellectual.
They're admired more in France, but they don't often get to run the government.

MENDES-FRANCE is 47, a lawyer, a Jew, an economics expert.
He's no compromiser. He wants to get to the root of things. He is a dogged worker, with a passion for detail and a flair for the personal touch.

Some believe he is trying in his first 50 days in office to make as deep changes in French political thinking as Franklin D. Roosevelt wrought in the United States in his first 100 days as president. To emphasize the comparison, some of his friends like to call him
"P. M. F." in seeming imitation of the American fashion of calling prominent politicians by their initials.

MENDES-FRANCE has a simple political axiom: "To govern is to choose."

Priority ratings must be set, he says, for the problems that face his country. He made his choice and set his ratings when he took office.

Indochina was No. 1.

No. 2 is putting the country's economic house in order.

No. 3 a decision on rearming
Germany—either within the plan
for a six-nation European army,
or some modified version.

He made his peace in Indochina.
The cost was great, the terms hard. But an overwhelming majority of Frenchmen clearly wanted to end the fighting. If he didn't end it by July 20, he had said, he would quit. He was about three hours late but no one seemed to mind.

He has promised to give the National Assembly his program of economic reform this week. His main idea is to reconvert French industry from war production to items that can be sold abroad to replace the U. S. aid dollars that France will lose with the end of the Indochina War.

Before Parliament goes on vacation about mid-August he has promised to submit a project for rearming Germans that can get approval from the National Assembly.

There were signs both sides were ready to bargain but no immediate hope was held for a compromise in the 10-day fight which was climaxed with an almost continuous 86-hour session lasting from Wednesday morning until 11:48
p.m. (EDT) Saturday.

Conceding he may fail, Republican Leader Knowland of California indicated he would push his effort to close off debate shortly after the Senate reconvenes today.

He would need the votes of 64
senators to invoke the cloture rule and end what both he and the White House have termed a fil-luster.

THE HOUSE, which completed
preliminary action on the measure in its own 17½ hour marathon session Friday, meets at noon today to wrap up its work with a final series of roll call votes.

But the strict rules which limit House debate do not apply in the Senate, and a resumption of round-the-clock sessions are possible for the senators unless some agreement is reached.

Knowland pleaded Saturday for some "reasonable formula" for a settlement, declared that "President Eisenhower does not ask a rubber stamp Congress." He gave no indication, however, how far he might be willing to compromise.

On the other side, Sen. Gore (D-Tenn.) told newsmen "I now doubt that he can win." That comment came after Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas had proposed a limit on debate. Most opposition to the administration bill has come from a small group of Democrats.

BUT GORE, one of the opposition's main sparkplugs, declined to predict whether the debate might wither and die, saying "we'll have to wait and see how everyone feels on Monday."

In advance of Rhee's arrival from Seoul, Eisenhower summoned to a White House luncheon conference today his top military policy
advisers—Secretary of Defense Wilson and Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff—along with Gen. James A.
Van Fleet, who has just completed a 90-day survey of Far Eastern military needs for the President.

Storm Hits
Phone Lines

MOUNT POCONO and Pocono Lake were "isolated regions" last night. Telephone trunk lines to both areas from Stroudsburg were out of order.

Stroudsburg Bell manager Budd Van Horn said last night that crews working to repair the lines were still unable to find the cause for the service interruption.

Van Horn said a maximum number of men were working to put the two exchanges back in order.
Cause of the disturbance, Van Horn indicated, was apparently in the lead cable into the two phone centers.

Telephone service between Stroudsburg and the Mount Poo-no-Pocono Lake regions was first reported "out" at 7 p.m. Van Horn said workmen would continue their search for the cause throughout the night. He said repairmen hoped to remedy the situation by early today.

Gen. Rymin Too Bright To Stay Alive

By Tom Whitney

AP Foreign Staff

GEN. RYMIN knew too much. That's quite possibly the real reason the Kremlin ordered a bullet put through the back of his head earlier this month.

Last Friday the Soviet government announced the trial and execution of M. D. Rymin, a former high soviet police official who had languished in jail for a year and three months.

He was convicted of treason in organizing the famous known as the "Doctors' Plot," in which distinguished Soviet medical men were accused in January 1953 of plotting assassination of Soviet leaders.

HERE'S the background of this mysterious case insofar as it's known:

Rymin in late 1932 was deputy minister of state security of the USSR and chief of the department for "particularly important investigations."

Rymin's immediate boss, the minister of state security, who had control over much of the Soviet secret police and intelligence establishment, was a party man named Semyon Ignatiev.

The authority of Lavrenty Beria, who had previously run the police for Stalin for many years, was distinctly on the decline.

THE EVIDENCE is that Ignatiev had been given his important job over Beria's head.

Someone came to Rymin in late 1932 with orders—to investigate charges made by a woman doctor in the Kremlin, Lydia Timashchuk. Timashchuk, apparently a pathological anti-Semite, had made up her mind that certain Kremlin doctors, most of them Jewish and including the most distinguished medical names in the land, were murdering their high-ranking patients. Rymin's predecessors also had heard of her charge. They had investigated, and found them to be pure fantasy.

But whoever talked to Rymin this time made it clear that different results were desired.

RYMIN was no fool. He did the job requested of him. He rounded up the suspected doctors and extracted confessions by methods for which the secret police are famous.

He saw to it that medical records were faked to prove the assassination charges.

Thus the notorious "Doctors' Plot" was born.

THE CLEARFIELD County judge hasn't called off the hearing despite the board's action Friday night in discharging Haluska and the doctors. The board also voted to drop its injunction proceeding.

Edward Harrington, who identified himself as a special investigator for Haluska, said the Cambria County Democrat plans to file a motion Tuesday requiring the trustees to show why they should not be held in contempt of court.

Atty. Samuel DiFrancesco counsel for the doctors, said he believes the trustees should be adjudged in contempt of court. He added:

"UNTIL JUDGE Pentz withdraws or amends his order in some manner, it is positively in effect. We will be in court Tuesday."

Judge Pentz' order, issued July 15, stopped the doctors from resigning en masse that night as they had threatened unless Haluska resigned or was fired.

The decree also directed Haluska to continue as administrator, exercising his duties with a minimum of contact with the medical staff.

IN ASKING Judge Pentz to void his order last Thursday, the doctors said the trustees had not abided by an agreement to fire Haluska within a "reasonable time" if he didn't resign.

The doctors also charged in their petition that Haluska, through his counsel, made three propositions offering to resign if they paid him sums ranging from $6,500 to $10,000.

The following day Haluska filed a petition saying he made the propositions but only after the doctors had offered to pay his yearly salary of $7,200 if he would quit. Haluska said he refused.

IN DISMISSING Haluska and the doctors, the trustees said they could apply for reinstatement at any time if they meet certain conditions, chief among them being that they forego all litigation.

The doctors said they expected to seek reinstatement. Haluska said he would fight to retain his job.

The controversy centers on a cancer treatment which the American Medical Assn. says is worthless.

HARRY M. Hoxsey, Dallas, Tex., as, naturopath, claims the treatment cures cancer. It consists of a medicine applied internally and externally.

Haluska championed the treatment and campaigned for establishment of a Hoxsey clinic in Cambria County. Doctors at the hospital objected and the feud was on.

The dispute boiled over after a report reached the doctors that Haluska planned to set up a Hoxsey clinic at the hospital. Haluska denied this report. But the doctors immediately issued their ultimatum that either Haluska goes or they go.

Doctors, Haluska Plan Battle Over Firing At Hospital Discharge Move

EBENSBURG, PA. (AP)—Doctors who have been fired from the staff of embattled Miners' Hospital at Spangler and its deposed administrator, State Sen. John J. Haluska, plan to renew their court fight Tuesday.

Judge John J. Pentz of Clearfield County has set that date for arguments on two petitions filed by the 16 doctors, who comprise the entire staff of the little Cambria County hospital.

One petition seeks voiding of a court decree ordering the staff to stay on the job. The other asks dismissal of an injunction petition by the hospital's Board of Trustees against the physicians.

Jane Froman, Singing Symbol Of Courage In United States Highlights Show Guest Star

Jane Froman, America's singing symbol of courage, will be one of the stars of the "Highlights" show to be presented by East Stroudsburg Varsity "E" Club on Aug. 15.

The show benefits a fund for lights at the high school football stadium. Miss Froman's agreement to appear on the program was announced by Tom Waring, director of the show, last night.

Waring said he talked with Miss Froman by trans-Pacific telephone at 1 a.m. Saturday. The world-famed vocalist is now appearing in Hawaii.

MISS FROMAN told Waring she "would be very happy to appear in the show and was completely thrilled with the whole idea," the director said.

The singing star is scheduled to arrive at Shawnee Inn on Aug. 12, Waring said. A previous announcement said she would come to this area on Aug. 6.

Miss Froman was critically injured in a plane crash during World War Two while on a tour with a United Service Organization troupe to entertain G.I.s in the European theater.

HER SUBSEQUENT battle to regain her strength and recuperate against almost overwhelming odds was one of the most courageous stories to come from the long history of USO service during wartime.

The story provided the basis for a 1952 motion picture based on Miss Froman's life—"With A Song In My Heart," starring Susan Hayward.

The movie, and Miss Hayward's performance, were among top contenders for "Oscars" during the 1953 Academy Award race.

SINCE HER recovery from the serious injuries, Miss Froman has staged a completely successful "comeback" in U. S. radio and television.

During the year just past she was one of the most sought-after performers in either medium.

Five Accidents Damage 12 Vehicles And Injure Two Persons

One Is Hurt Seriously In Crash Series

TWO WERE INJURED — one seriously — in five Monroe area accidents over the weekend which resulted in a total $2,375 damages to 12 vehicles.

Adjoining counties Pike and Carbon each registered a fatal accident for the weekend.

The man hurt seriously was soldier Richard Kolp, 25, from the Aberdeen Proving Grounds in Maryland. He was listed in "fair" condition at East Stroudsburg General Hospital under treatment for fractured skull and jaw, and injuries of the back and scalp.

HIS WIFE, Carolyn, 22, was released from the hospital after treatment for leg cuts.

The Kolps were returning home Saturday after visiting relatives in the Stroudsburg area, and were driving east on Route 209 about two miles east of East Stroudsburg, said Stroudsburg State police.

Police said about 7:50 p. m. Kolp saw a car ahead starting to pull into a parking lot and calculated there would be time for the car to complete its move. But the other car was not off the highway when Kolp drew close and the soldier had to apply his brakes and swerve to the left to avoid a collision, police said.

KOLP'S car skidded on the rainy pavement, spun, then struck an embankment. Next the car veered across the road and collided with an oncoming car driven by B. Weber, 55, a Stemple St. East Stroudsburg, garage operator. Then the soldier's auto struck the vehicle of Charles Garis, 19, Bushkill, police said.

The Kolps were taken to the hospital by ambulance. Mrs. Kolp was kept overnight for observation but was released yesterday morning.

Weber went to his garage and returned to tow the damaged vehicles away. Damage to Weber's car was estimated at $25; Kolp's $800; and Garis', $400, police said.

In a Snyder'sville accident at 8:40 p. m. Friday damages totaled $145 to three cars involved in a collision on Route 209.

STROUDSBURG troopers said John Urban, 39, Plains, Pa., started to pull his truck to the left to pass the car of Richard Evans, 20, Wilkes-Barre. Police said the car started to swerve to the left, then hooked the truck bumper, then swerved back to the right.

In swerving back to the right, police said, the auto pulled the rear of the truck to the right and a parked car became involved in the collision. The parked auto was owned by Norman Schueck, 31, Coopersburg, Pa.

Two cars collided on a bridge at 8 p. m. Saturday two miles south of East Stroudsburg on Route 612, causing damages of $150 to each auto.

Stroudsburg troopers said Ben Goshensky, 31, Easton, was driving south and applied his brakes to slow down for the bridge. He told police the car skidded, hit the side of the bridge, then collided with the oncoming auto of Mary Merlo, 26, Mount Bethel.

A CAR AND TRUCK crashed at Coolbaugh's, seven miles east of East Stroudsburg, just 45 minutes after the Goshensky-Merlo crash.

Driving the west-bound truck was John Krakovsky, 44, Wilkes-Barre, said Stroudsburg State police. In the sedan was Stephen Stechyn, 22, Chester, Pa.

Police said the trucker told them a car ahead slowed to make a left turn. The truck driver applied his brakes and swerved slightly to the left to avoid a collision. The oncoming car of Stechyn collided with the truck, police said.

Damages were estimated at $250 to the sedan and $50 to the truck.

IN BUSHKILL Richard A. Houloose, 20, of 40 Ransberry Ave., East Stroudsburg, was charged with driving to the left of the center line following an accident there on Winona road at 7:30 p. m. Saturday.

Milford troopers said his car collided with the auto of Jerome Lipkin, 20, Philadelphia, at the top of a hill. Left front of each vehicle was damaged, an estimated $200 each.

Police said Houloose paid a $10 fine and $5 costs on the charge before a Bushkill peace justice.

Nancy Carol Getz Joins List Of Pocono Mountains Girls In Junior Jinx Competition

SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLD Nancy Carol Getz, Stroudsburg High School Junior, has joined the list of entrants for the Miss Pocono-Junior Jinx contest sponsored by Shawnee Inn and The Daily Record in conjunction with NBC and Tex and Jinx McCrary.

A five-foot-five, blue-eyed blonde, Nancy finds time to participate in many sports—swimming, skating, shooting, and horseback riding. And, along with all these activities, she adds a musical interest to the list in the form of voice and piano lessons, and participation in the Mixed, Girls and Decamettes choruses at the high school.

In selecting Miss Pocono the judges also will be selecting this area's representative to the "Junior Jinx" contest finals sponsored by Tex and Jinx McCrary and the National Broadcasting Co. Inc., and which will be held at the Long Island Hospital "Star Night" September 12.

MISS POCONO will be a girl 21 years of age or under, (married or single); will be good looking enough to model, sports-minded enough to play tennis and swim gracefully, poised enough to wear fashionable clothes and have the enthusiasm, intelligence and curiosity necessary to be trained as a radio-TV reporter.

All of the resorts in the Pocono area have been invited to enter representatives in the Miss Pocono contest. The winner will be one of the ten finalists in the judging for the "Junior Jinx" title, which will include a year's contract for radio and TV appearances and a two-weeks all expense paid vacation to El Rancho Vegas.

Visitors and vacationers to the Pocono Mountains are eligible to compete for the Miss Pocono title. It is only necessary to send a recent photo and a letter stating qualifications to Miss Pocono-Junior Jinx Contest, c/o Michael A. Devitt, Shawnee Inn, Shawnee-On-Delaware, Pa.

Steel Worker Is Held In Death Case

LEWISTOWN, PA. (AP)—An unemployed steel worker was being held on an open charge in Mifflin County jail here yesterday in connection with the death of a 56-year-old Lewistown man.

Shortly after George Banks Hook was pronounced dead of a head injury on arrival at Lewistown Hospital early yesterday morning, state police arrested James Thomas Rose, 35, also of Lewistown.

State Trooper Quentin H. Cooper said Rose admitted having struck Hook on the head during a quarrel in the home of Mrs. Beatrice Carous, the dead man's daughter.

DR. LEROY Schaeffer, hospital pathologist, said Hook died of a brain injury suffered by a blow to the head.

Cooper quoted Mrs. Carous as saying she and Rose were arguing in her house when her father arrived. She said the two men began arguing and Rose struck Hook in the face and then kicked him in the stomach.

Rose, Cooper said, told him he struck Hook once on the head with his fist but did not kick him.

Mrs. Carous, whose husband has been dead for a year, is the mother of eight children. Rose was arrested at his father's home nearby.

Cooper said Rose is being held on the open charge pending the outcome of a further investigation of the death. No inquest has been set.

Bethlehem Boy Faces Surgery

A BETHLEHEM boy who has been in critical condition ever since his rescue from drowning more than a month ago will undergo surgery this morning at East Stroudsburg General Hospital.

Two Scranton brain specialists will perform the operation to see what can be done for Douglas Knecht, 14.

The lad suffered a broken neck, evidently from a shallow dive or from striking his head on a rock. Another camper at Camp Mohican near Delaware, N. J., stumbled on Knecht as the boy lay beneath the surface.

Artificial respiration and oxygen equipment apparently saved the boy's life. At the hospital later, Knecht was found to be paralyzed in his arms and legs, with only slight movement in one arm. Checking for the cause of the paralysis, the fractured vertebrae were discovered.

Directional Sign Placement Due To Cooperative Action William Altier Announces

PLACEMENT of a new directional sign near Delaware Water Gap bridge was brought about by more than a year and a half of cooperative work, William Altier, president of the Eastern Poconos Association, said last night.

The success of the drive does not depend on any one individual, Altier said. Instead, the association president emphasized, the E. P. A. has constantly tried to bring about major improvements through the cooperation of all other organizations in the Poconos region.

Altier pointed out that correspondence between Alvin DeWitt, E. P. A. secretary and various State and toll commission officials was carried out with DeWitt acting in a non-official capacity. DeWitt, in letters to the officials, also said: "... Although I am secretary of the Eastern Pocono Association and a member of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau, I am not writing this letter in any official capacity, merely as a private citizen," Altier noted.

THE E. P. A., Altier said, is "interested in the same results as the many other organizations working in the Poconos—advancement and development of the Poconos."

"I have served as president of the E. P. A. since 1950," Altier said. "During these years I have been advised as to procedure by our board of directors on many issues affecting our own area and the entire Pocono Mountains."

"Most recently I have been asked to serve on the Chamber of Commerce highway committee, headed very capably by Clifford Cramer. After several meetings, much correspondence and unlimited time given by Cramer and members of his committee, we were rewarded by the erection of new, and much better, directional signs coming off Delaware Water Gap bridge," Altier said.

"This result is but the first of many hoped for improvements being sought. We realize that concerted work and cooperative help from all organizations interested will be the only way that progress can be shown."

"I WANT IT" clearly understood that all letters written by our secretary... did not have the sanction of our Board of Directors nor any away from me to act in behalf of the E. P. A., Altier said. "Any and all correspondence was merely an innovation of his own. Our stand has been and will continue to be—development and advancement of the entire Pocono Mountains region."

Altier said the E. P. A. began its drive to get new and better directional signs for the area more

Radars Speed Control

Among the many legislative proposals to be submitted to Pennsylvania's General Assembly when it convenes in Harrisburg next January will be one asking for legislation of radar control of speeding vehicles, if present tests being conducted by the State Police prove the value of such an action.

Recently Secretary of Highways E. L. Schmidt predicted that use of radar as evidence in highway speeding prosecutions must be legalized if the continuing road hazard provided by highspeed drivers is to be controlled.

He also commented on the undeniable fact that the police cars must travel at such tremendous speeds to catch violators that they themselves set up a hazard on the highways. Several bad accidents have occurred as a result of this.

Presently our State Police are using the device only in an experimental way with three crews checking turnpike speeds and by use of car radio alerting other vehicles ahead to the fact that a speeder is on the way.

Radars, if properly used, should be a material aid to adequate control of the speeders. Everyone admits that most drivers will exceed the legal limit if they think they can get away with it, and it has become a usual thing for a heavyfooted motorist to keep an eye on the rearvision mirror to see if a police car has noted his high speed. With radar, such wary vigilance will avail nothing, for the driver can not be expected to spot a radar set-up along the way especially if it is installed in an unobtrusive manner.

High speed is not necessarily an invitation to the morgue, but it contributes to such a trip. Maybe radar will be a life-saver.

Mr. Average

It's not Mr. Big nor is it Mr. Little who pays most of the cost of running the United States Government. It's the average persons with an income of between $3000 and $10,000.

Figures from the U. S. Treasury show that those who make less than $3000 a year pay about one-tenth of the Federal income taxes.

Persons who take in more than $10,000 a year shell out 39 per cent of the taxes.

George Sokolsky Says...

But Mr. Average paid 48 per cent of the total income tax collected in 1951. The staggering figure was $24,438,743,000.

So, the in-betweeners are the main support of the Federal government. But all taxpayers are in the middle what with Federal, state and local governments showing little inclination to cut taxes.

Pennsylvanians are especially aware of this with a state sales tax piled on the others.

Foundations Should Be Investigated From Facts, Not Set Of Definitions

It is not generally discussed but one of the reasons for the proliferation of foundations is the tax structure of our country. Many business men, whose development cost blood, sweat and tears—to use a phrase—would have to go out of existence or be reduced by the sale of valuable properties, to meet inheritance taxes. To protect the continuity of the property, it is advantageous to give it to a foundation, the heirs working for a salary. They would not be better off if they continued to own the otherwise dissipated property.

Also, when a man has worked hard, used his skill and ingenuity to a maximum, accumulated a property which he cannot hand over to his heirs, he sets up a foundation during his life-time and uses his surplus for what he believes are good works.

When we think of foundations, the names Rockefeller, Carnegie and Ford come to mind. These were set up by men who are now dead. The Sloan-Kettering Foundation, which is doing so much in cancer research, has been set up by men who are alive. Altogether there are between 6,000 and 7,000 foundations in the United States, of varying dimensions, with capital resources of $7,500,000,000 and with annual grants amounting to at least $300,000,000 to a number of causes. The reason the figures are estimates is that all the facts about foundations are not known.

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

MOTHER KNOWS BEST

With Victor Borge, a piano player, passing the $500,000 mark for a one-man performance and with Liberace, another pianist, getting more gold than Fort Knox as one of the entertainment world's sensations of all time, it seems to us that at least a signal victory has been won by Mothers.

Who - Who - Forced - Kids - to - Take-Piano-Lessons. A lot of hard feeling and even bitterness has had to be borne by these mothers through the years. There has been deep criticism of them for making Junior stay in and take his lesson from Professor Speegledorfer while from outside came the cries of "Hey, it's my turn at bat," "Put it here, Red!" and "Shuddup. I can run you out by a mile." But mommer has been vindicated as seldom before by the Victor Borge-Liberace triumphs of the piano over the Ringling Brothers Circus and "Oklahoma."

We also see a victory over the jukebox, the phonograph and all forms of canned music. The piano may even be coming back, a fact which frightens all kids up to the point where you point to Liberace and Borge, their income tax and their take-home pay after everybody has had a cut. Mom tried to get us to take piano lessons as a kid, but we fought the issue to a finish, even hiding in the woods for a week or so. We have since wondered why we were so foolishly obdurate. But now it is all clear—we grew up in the B.L.B. Era (Before Liberace and Borge). The best a piano player could do then, if struck us, was to make the Poli vaudeville orchestra, play at the Music Hall dance or get invited to parties only because there were no other piano players in the neighborhood. We belonged to the great small fry fraternity of kids opposed to piano lessons, and now we know the reason. Mother never knew the importance of a wisecrack and a comedy routine, and there wasn't a piano teacher anywhere who could halt the lessons now and then for some ad libbing and general development of the vaudeville routine. Professor Speegledorfer was a dour man who didn't have a gag in his system. He just wouldn't stand on his head or take a pratfall for a laugh and would have blown his stack at any suggestion. There was a great future in the piano playing profession if you could work the old masters into a sure-fire comedy routine, fall off the piano stool now and then and perhaps appear in a lily-white suit. Today, there can be no doubt that fame and riches are yours if you can build piano playing into an act which has all the amusement-world appeal of a water carnival, a revival of vaudeville, and a farewell of vaudeville. We see the possibilities of a situation where Little Willie will come running to mother imploring, "Mumma, can't I PLEASE have my piano lessons five days a week instead of one?"

Mike Todd, one of our favorite show people, is in the big dough again with Todd-AO, a new big-screen movie system which is doing the Hollywood version of "Oklahoma." . . . The Surrey With the Todd On Top, as it were . . . "Oklahoma," by the way, is being shot in Arizona!!! This can mean war, men . . . "Closed Door" won a stake at Monmouth and Shudda Haddock got shut out . . . James Cochran, said to be the oldest saloonist in America, has sold his Milwaukee place after 72 years in the business and he takes us away back with his nostalgic statement, "There was a time when beer was a nickel and you put the bottle on the bar for the customer to help himself to whisky at a dime a glass." . . . Yes, and there was Adam Ziegler's place in Crown Street back home where a hot lunch was served every noon FOR FREE with any nickel drink . . . Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

Every Youngster Finds Out Parents' Care Best

Two boys, who recently ran away from their homes in Connecticut, left a note for their folks, reading: "We are going away for a week. We want to find out about life the hard way."

Both of them are back home by now, and both of them have found out that there IS a hard way to life—the way almost all of us have to travel as we go along.

Some time during every youngster's life comes the awakening, as he finds out that life isn't all what he thought it was when his parents looked after him and made the first few years as easy for him as their means permitted.

Suddenly the child is confronted with the necessity to figure things out for himself, to make his own decisions and, above all, to earn his own livelihood.

It is then when he is first confronted with that terrifying feeling described by David Riesman in a new book entitled "Individualism Reconsidered." This is really a follow-up to his previous volume "The Lonely Crowd."

Loneliness, or aloneness, as the author calls it, is sometimes almost impossible to bear. Even success becomes bitter when "it is not socially approved or even known."

It is probably this fear of aloneness that has made us here in America become such passionate joiners, and that fear is the reason for the thousands of clubs, societies, fraternal organizations and other bodies where one can feel that one "belongs" and is not completely alone.

The ability to be alone and to be more or less self-sufficient is quite an art and needs a certain amount of cultivation.

Did you ever wake up in the middle of the night in complete darkness and stillness? That is when you were absolutely alone with not even your wife or your husband right next to you to help you in that aloneness of yours.

Some people go through life that way. Even in the company of hundreds they are alone. Even when surrounded by crowds, they do not become part of the throng but are separate units, thinking their own thoughts, living life "the hard way."

Yet, I wonder whether these people, whom we are wont to call the "introverts," really ARE alone. Perhaps their own company, their own thoughts, mean more to them than the prattle and rattle of crowds.

Perhaps they are the ones who really DO the worthwhile things in life, who create beautiful as well as useful things for us.

I just read the obituary of a man who had become a millionaire at 25 in real estate speculations. He was a man of letters, a writer and a publicist.

But in one year he lost every penny he had. He had become a hopeless drunkard. Later on he reformed, made another modest success and died much to combat alcoholism. The other day he died at the age of 56.

What made this man drink himself into poverty when he was surrounded by so-called friends and when he had achieved such signal success? Nobody knows; he never told.

There is a typical example of the "aloneness" every one of us has to go through in life, and there, also, is an example, that all of us have to go through life "the hard way."

Try and Stop Me

There was a journalist in Chicago named Perlestein who suddenly changed his name to Paris. The latter, he explained, he now knew, as a result of careful investigation, had been the correct family name all the time. This gave Author Lammet Dedmon the opportunity to tell all and sundry, "The last time I saw Paris—he was Perlestein!"

In his "Lexicon of Musical Inevitability," Nicholas Slonimsky tells of a time when Composer Max Raeger felt that a derogatory critic had overstepped all bounds and wrote him as follows: "Sir, I am sitting in the smallest room of my house. I have your review before me. In a moment it will be behind me."

The AFL News-Reporter, no fervent admirer of the current Secretary of Agriculture, suggested, "The opportunity to break up the New York Yankees at last has presented itself; put Mr. Benson in charge of their farm system!"

Robert S. Allen Reports

West Germany Receiving Surplus Farm Commodities

Washington—The U. S. is shipping more than $100,000,000 worth of surplus farm commodities to West Germany in preparation for its rearming.

This huge stockpile will be used to feed 12 divisions that will be organized there as part of the U. S. NATO defense system. The U. S. will provide the bulk of their food for two years.

Six of these German divisions are slated to be in existence by the end of 1955.

American experts and facilities, both here and abroad, will help train the German troops. That is now being arranged. Certain key specialists are already receiving instruction.

Also, as previously reported in this column, the U. S. is building up a $250,000,000 weapons stockpile for these forces.

Most of this equipment, which includes jet planes, tanks and artillery, is being procured in this country with funds from the foreign military aid budget. These preparations have reached the point where the huge stock of arms is causing storage difficulties.

The unannounced $100,000,000 food stockpile was disclosed by Foreign Aid Director Harold Stassen at a private meeting with members of the House Appropriations Committee.

He indicated similar measures are contemplated for the rearming of Japan.

Representative John Taber (R., N. Y.) chairman, inquired about the extent of the backstage preparations for rearming Germany. Following are highlights of Stassen's reply:

"We have an over-all $300,000,000 food program for this purpose, of which more than a third is stockpiled. Similarly, the necessary equipment, most of which will be furnished by the U. S., is also well on the way. It is expected the Germans will take care of replacements after they get going. We've done a great deal of advance planning and preparing, and once the go-ahead is given, you will see one of the fastest jobs of building an army in modern history."

Still Disrupting—The long-delayed Spanish bases program is again being stalled.

These urgently-needed air and naval defenses against Russian aggression are being blocked by the same person and for the same reason.

He is Senator Pat McCarran (D., Nev.), who for months has been waging a furious behind-the-scenes fight to force American and Spanish authorities to permit German contractors to be cut in on the several hundred million dollars worth of work that will be done.

McCarran's latest maneuver is to require the Air Force to obtain approval of the Senate Appropriations Committee before granting contracts for construction in Spain.

McCarran is a member of this powerful Committee, thus putting him in a strategic position to pressure the Air Force to yield to his demands for favors to German contractors. Backing him in this undercover plan is Senator Styles Bridges (R., N. H.), chairman of the Committee.

So far the Air Force has refused to yield to McCarran. But he is doing everything in his power to compel it to do so, and with Bridges' potent aid the outcome of this amazing undercover struggle is conjectural.

Graphically illustrative of McCarran's tactics is his bitter clash with Pentagon and State Department officials at the secret meeting of the Appropriations Committee. He virtually "beat" them over the head in his angry efforts to force them to bow to his demands.

The bases agreement expressly limits the contractors to Spaniards and Americans. McCarran is vehemently insisting that these terms be changed to include Germans. In his extraordinary backstage operations, he has gone to the length of personally negotiating with Spanish officials. He claims they have agreed to a revision. U. S. authorities deny that.

At the closed-door Appropriations session, McCarran wrangled caustically with Air Undersecretary James Douglas over this.

"Has the State Department informed the Defense Department of the Spanish government has no objection to the utilization of German contractors?"

Douglas said he knew nothing about that.

"In fact," he added, "I didn't know anything about this meeting until 20 minutes ago when I was directed to appear here."

McCarran thereupon read what he described as a letter from Assistant Secretary of State Thurston B. Morton saying, "It is still considered premature to make a decision on this subject since the construction is only in the planning stage. If, when the stage of execution is reached, Spanish resources should not be available in sufficient quantity to handle construction, the opportunity would arise to consider the use of foreign resources."

"Doesn't that say that West German contractors should be considered?" argued McCarran.

Non-Partisan Registration Drive Needed

—by H. G. Heller

Gilbert L. Smrz, general manager of Line Material Company, takes considerable time from his busy list of responsibilities to a major industrial firm to create some down-to-earth, but very effective letters dealing with registration of voters and the duty of voters to go to the polls in every election.

Gil have been doing a remarkable job in this field for a long time. His latest letter—which receives wide distribution—was like the rest, an excellent editorial winding up with the punch-line: "REMEMBER! Good Government hasn't a chance unless the good people vote!"

A couple of weeks ago, Labor's League For Political Education came out with the announcement that they intended to contact all the service clubs and many other organizations in an effort to set up a "non-partisan" campaign to get everybody registered.

Officials of the league said their first task, however, would be to check membership in the labor unions here against registration lists to determine how many union men were not registered and make a personal appeal for them to register.

The Smrz appeals have been non-partisan and right down the line to workmen in his own operation at Line Material. His latest treatise, however, hits a particular group—the supervisory-management employees in Pennsylvania.

Gil discloses the startling fact that 30 per cent of these people are not registered to vote and he adds: "Only 32.5 per cent of Pennsylvania's voters went to the polls on May 18, primary election, to vote."

Registration ends September 11. General Election for selection of a complete state-government executive group from Governor on down, occurs November 2.

The time is all too short to set up a non-partisan drive for registration, but we see no reason why the very effective one-man drive Gil Smrz is conducting shouldn't be incorporated in the non-partisan attempt now proposed.

There is an important need for education of the eligible registrant.

For instance, there are many who think they are registered and are not at all because they failed to vote at an election during the last two years. How many know the rule for registering "on age" or when the individual becomes 21. How about the residence rules, and the rule covering movement to another district?

Here's a great opportunity for genuine non-partisanship to carry out the most important assignment in the world.

Just Between Us

—By bobby Westbrook

Main Street on any Summer evening presents a style show whose variety could scarcely be equaled anywhere else as vacationers in the brand new clothes they brought for the purpose stroll up and down and the town-folk in their somewhat-faded everyday wear join them on errands bent.

It's the vacationing men who present the most startling innovations. At least I haven't seen any familiar faces above the new-length shorts and bare knees. Maybe the vacationers wouldn't have courage to wear them in their own home-towns, either.

While it is scarcely a popular opinion. I still think some shorts look good on some men. Particularly those all-leather ones that look as if they should be climbing Alps.

But the Bermuda short fad has spread to the girls, too. Bermuda shorts with flannel blazers and white shirts. They look good, too, on the college girls.

Our local men are going in for these transparent nylon shirts, however, in a big way. You get the impression that the demand for see-through containers has spread to the clothing end. Even the pockets are transparent, and you can see what brand of cigarettes they smoke, the chewing gum wrappers and any spare change they carry in their breast pocket.

On the other hand, the girls seem to be getting more opaque. A bewildered male asked just yesterday what made those full skirts stick out like that. Well, it's petticoats, of course, some of them hooped but mostly of horsehair or yards and yards of stiffened nylon.

I like the leather scrapbook with teen-age figures enlivening its cover that bears the little "Things and Stuff." That's what memories are really—"stuff." The stuff of which dreams are made and from which futures are built. It's strange, all the treasures, remembrances, and clippings that change the youngster of yesterday into the adult of today. If you've never reflected upon this, look around for your school-day scrapbook, and see for yourself. . . . It is always flattering to have a reader of the column, or a radio listener, come into the store and ask to meet me. But it's embarrassing too. I'd so much like to be the person they picture, rather than the person I am. But what is their idea of me? THERE is the question. Mrs. William Kennedy of Portland will never know how quickly I powdered my nose and renewed by lipstick when she asked Blanche Mackay to introduce us Friday afternoon. But maybe I shouldn't have worried. Mrs. Kennedy is one of those pleasant people who seemed very gracious about accepting others at face value. I certainly wish though that I could arrange with someone, like pretty Barbara Van Vleet of our credit office, to double for me on occasion. . . . Now for a few snapshots collected this past Saturday at Wyckoff's: the first is of the mobs swarming like bees in a hive around our mark-down tables in the center aisle. Note the frown of concentration on some of the ladies as they study the figurines from Japan. Some of them are beautifully painted (the figurines, not the ladies) and others are not so meticulously done—but these are bargains, nonetheless. . . . Now this is a picture of Dorothy VanWhy, the Daily Record's very nice proofreader, who was looking for a pitcher just the right size for a bachelor girl. . . . This picture is of Cora Albertson, who was "happy birthday" by the lingerie staff and presented with some baked candy from Jeune Van Etten's oven, and a huge arrangement of fruit planned by Souville Bowman. . . . (Incidentally, Dottie Brands tells me she has a dog named "Cora" in honor of her boss). . . . Here's another picture of Cora running for shelter from Saturday evening's storm. That's Laura Fabel of hosiery, scampering with her. The rain felt good, they said, and they'd have preferred sitting still on the bench out front, but Cora—who isn't sanforized—might shrink, and then WHERE would she be? . . .

Turning a page, we find a picture of Carlotta Rohrbach, Kathleen Widmer, Jackie Onicy, and Mary Tyreman looking tired but happy. This was posed immediately after the 14th pair of Florsheim shoes walked out of the store on the feet of delighted customers. . . . The next picture shows Audrey Albert and Carol Smith forgetting their teen-age dignity while they hop those little rubber dogs from our toy department up and down the aisle. The man in the background? Oh—that's Tommy Rinehart also racing a dog. Tommy didn't forget his dignity, however—he's just considering a purchase for his grandchild. . . . Over here is a shot of the little fellow who wandered AWOL from his mother, and crept up the stairs to investigate our floor covering department. . . . This snap is of a young woman "twisting her mother's arm" (as she laughingly explained it) to make her buy a five dollar bracelet marked down to half price on our jewelry counter. That second shot shows her smile when it worked. . . . And this last is a picture of John Mcneir, our Wyckoff radio announcer, sampling a piece of the homemade fudge sold in our candy department. The "Houseparty" chef is smiling—and why not? It's good!

Rooms Reconstructed For Miller's Window Displays

IF YOU'RE like many local residents you enjoy a leisurely ride in the evening or a walk along Main Street where you can do a little window shopping.

The next time you go out don't fail to see the new window displays at the A. C. Miller Furniture store, corner of Main and Fourth.

Remodeling plans are almost complete. Two of the four large display areas are already finished and decorated. Plans are to make each of the display areas a complete room in itself.

PERMANENT back and side partitions have been erected and then the "rooms" decorated to harmonize with the displays of furniture.

Now you don't have to guess how a group of furniture will look in your home. Complete interior arrangements have been made for each period... whether it be early American or young modern.

Manager Frank Miller says this latest step, to better display the store's fine selection of furniture, is just the beginning. He promised that bigger and more exciting things are planned for the Fall.

Tread Softly
Fatigue begins at the floor, say the flooring manufacturers. They contend that any ideal floor must be resilient, warm and smooth. These three qualities reduce strain on leg nerves and muscles, loss of body heat and facilitate walking.

Radar's Use For Traffic Control Good

By The Associated Press
SPREADING use of radar for traffic control is being credited with cutting the accident rate in most of the states where it is in operation.

Virginia state police, for example, say the "Whammy," as they call it, sliced the state's Fourth of July traffic death toll from 21 last year to 7 this year.

An Associated Press survey disclosed that 29 states now have radar in local or statewide use. Not one plans to drop it. Most are expanding its use.

VIRTUALLY all the 29 have been using radar to measure traffic speeds for two years or less. Colorado, Minnesota and Virginia adopted it July 1, Connecticut pioneered it eight years ago.

Rhode Island put it on a limited basis in 1948 and Arizona has been using it for about four years.

While radar stands up as conviction evidence in police and higher courts, one unexpected result has been a steep cut in the number of cases taken to court by violators.

AS USED in traffic control, the radar device is about as simple as taking a photograph. There is a unit about the size of a spotlight which shoots radio microwaves at the back of a car. The waves bounce back to a receiving and recording set in the police patrol car.

The difference in the time these waves take from patrol to speeding car to patrol again can be translated into miles-per-hour electronically and accurately. Readings are taken both on a dial and on a roll of graph paper.

The double reading furnishes both a check and a permanent record. In addition, some devices incorporate a camera which takes a picture of the suspect car and its license number.

WHEN A SPEEDER is detected, the operator radios to another patrol squad ahead to make the arrest or issue the warning.

Two other devices used are traffic cameras and speed-meters. With the camera a photograph is taken of a passing car from a point beside the road. From this photo, technicians can compute the car's speed. Police note the license number and later obtain warrants based on "information and belief."

The speed-meter operates on a stop-watch principle. Two lengths of rubber-covered cable are laid across a road at a specific distance apart. The weight of an auto crossing the first length starts a stop-watch; crossing the second stops it. A PATROLMAN stationed down the highway can compute from the elapsed time between cables the speed of the vehicle and flag down offenders.

Many police officials claim the biggest effect of radar or other electronic devices for measuring speed is "psychological." Some found that simulated devices often work just as well as the real thing in persuading motorists to reduce their speed.

So too are roadside signs stating "radar controlled area" or "radar in operation" whether any device is visible or not. One Tennessee official says, "The machines could be put in storage and the signs would do the job."

THUS FAR, Alabama and Florida are using radar only as an experimental basis. New England states, other than Connecticut, are not using radar for traffic control although some use it to spot-check

Dick Morman Gets Wings At Connally

HIS PRESENT course is polar navigation. Included in the flights will be cross-country flights to both the East and West coasts.

Persons in this area who would like to write Lt. Morman may address letters to him as follows: 2nd Lt. Richard L. Morman, A.D. 3033763, BPO Box 161, James Connally AFB, Waco, Texas.

East Stroudsburg battled its way into the semi-final round with a 1-0 victory over Bangor and then won over Stroudsburg last Thursday, 8-0.

McAdoo reached its present position with an 11-8 nod over Hazleton Nationals last Thursday after drawing an opening game bye. McAdoo scored 11 runs on only three hits against Hazleton and committed three errors.

Hazleton held a 6-0 lead going into the fourth inning, when the losing club's pitched walked seven men.

Valley and Trescow clash in the other half of the semi-final round action tonight.

If East Stroudsburg, a club that hasn't given up a run in the play-off action, wins today the district championship encounter will also be held at East Stroudsburg.

Winners of Districts Three and Four then clash and this club meets the District one and Two victor. The winner in the second inter-district game then plays at Williamsport.

Martins Creek Decisions Stockertown

Martins Creek — Martins Creek kept its present footing intact in first place and rolled to an 8-1 Blue Mountain League victory over Stockertown here yesterday.

The host contingent was in complete charge of the contest from the second inning through the final out.

Martins Creek scored one run in the third and then picked up two more in the sixth when Paul Kocher slammed a home run over the left field wall with one man aboard.

The league leader continued accounted for five more markers in the seventh with a three-run homer over the right centerfield wall by Manager Olympic "Patch" Paechli.

Stockertown was blanked through the first eight innings by Bill Goldsforth and Grucela, but DeLong crashed a homer over the left field wall in the ninth inning off the latter to avert a shutout.

Threat
The Redbirds again had two hits off Labine in the ninth, singles by Ray Jablonski and Schoendienst, producing the only St. Louis run. When Labine walked Musial and Joe Cunningham in order, Alston called for Hughes who struck out "Rip" Repulski to end the game.

Don Hoak scored both Brooklyn runs. He walked in the third, took third on a single by "Pee Wee" Reese and scored as "Duke" Snider singled to right.

In the seventh, Hoak opened with a double. A single by Reese sent Hoak to third from where he scored on Hodges' sacrifice fly.

Orioles Bow To A's Twice
Philadelphia (A) — The Philadelphia Athletics took both ends of a doubleheader from the Baltimore Orioles yesterday 9-4 and 6-4, bunching seven runs in the eighth inning of the first game and four in the seventh of the nightcap.

But for the first five and two-thirds innings of the second game, the A's couldn't do a thing.

One Game Scheduled
First National Bank and Peoples Coal collide in a regularly scheduled Stroudsburg Little League baseball game today, at 6:15 p. m. The contest will be played on the circuit's official field.

Bolt Tames Temper, Knocks Snead From PGA
St. Paul, Minn. (A) — Stormy Tommy Bolt, cracking one club and threatening a walkout, harnessed his fiery temper yesterday to upset favorite Sam Snead in a bitter 39-hole battle in the quarter-finals of the PGA golf championship.

The jut-jawed Texan, two down with four to play, collared the three-time champion on the 34th hole and went on to beat him on the third extra hole when Snead smothered an approach shot for a bogey six.

Earlier in the day, Bolt had broken a club shaft in two after missing a shot on the 18th and had stormed into the dressing room charging unfriendliness on the part of the galleries.

He threatened not to go out for the afternoon round but finally was persuaded to continue the match by cool-headed friends.

Tannersville Uses Nine Runs In Second To Gain Verdict

Readers—Tannersville chalked up its eighth victory in 15 Pocono Mountains League outings yesterday by scoring a 16-4 victory over Anahomink, here at the losing club's home base.

Tannersville wrapped up the verdict bright and early by scoring nine times in the second frame. From that point on the game was just a matter of time as Bill "Bump" Metzger halted the slipping Anahomink contingent on eight hits.

The win was the first for Metzger since joining the Tannersville club earlier this month.

Four Hurlers
Tannersville's attack was against four hurlers and included two runs in the third, one in the fourth, two in the fifth and a pair in the seventh.

Metzger on the other hand was in complete charge of the contest, as he held Anahomink scoreless until the seventh. The home club picked up one marker in the seventh, two in the eighth and one in the ninth and final inning.

Tannersville banged Tom Foley, "Red" Shook, Bob Schoonover and Manager Al Kasser for 17 hits.

Foley hit a home run for Anahomink and Sharon "Ott" Peeschatka powered a four base blow for the winning Tannersville contingent. Les "Bruno" Doll and Bob Hallett led the winning attack with four and three hits respectively.

Pocono A. C. Errors Give Portland Win

Portland—An alert Portland club took advantage of two Pocono A. C. errors in the home half of the ninth inning here yesterday to score three runs and earn an 8-7 Blue Mountain League victory.

Pocono A. C. scored once in the top of the last frame and seemed to have a 7-5 victory in the bag. But errors by Manager Bill French and Randy Morris set up Portland's scoring machinery and the home club plated three markers with only one out.

The two arch rivals battled through the first four innings on even terms, with the host contingent assuming a 3-2 edge in the fifth.

See-Saw
Pocono A. C. scored twice in the sixth for a 4-3 lead and then matched two-run bursts with Portland, the number two club in the current standings, in the eighth frame, but couldn't stop the Apollos in the home stretch.

The victory enabled Portland to remain within one game of pace-setting Martins Creek.

Morris led the Pocono A. C. attack once again with a triple and two singles in five trips to the plate. Bill "Lefty" Greenmoyer, with a double and two singles in five appearances at bat, was the big gun in a winning cause.

Bill Sommers, youthful Pocono A. C. hurler, pitched well enough to win most games as he limited powerful Portland to nine hits, only to have his mates commit five errors in the field.

Phillies Drop Pair To Cubs
Chicago (A) — Bob Talbot's single off Herman Wehmeier in the ninth inning scored Gene Baker with the winning run yesterday as the Chicago Cubs defeated Philadelphia 2-1 in the second game of a doubleheader after the Cubs captured the first 6-1 behind Paul Minner's four-hit pitching.

The sweep gave the Cubs their 11th win in the past 15 games.

Victim of the Chicagoan's belated spurt was Bob Greenwood, rookie righthander, who had a two hit 1-0 shutout going into the ninth for his first major league victory.

Single
Frankie Baumholtz opened the last round with a single, and Baker walked. After twice failing to sacrifice, Dee Fondy smashed a double over Richie Ashburn's head to score Baumholtz with the tying run.

Andrews To Trade Punches With Durrelle At St. Nick's

Columbia, N. J. — Paul Andrews, number four light-heavyweight contender, wound up training for tonight's bout with Yvon Durrelle, Canadian light heavyweight champion, here at Harry's Farm on Saturday.

Andrews, who makes the area camp his permanent training quarters, departed for New York with Manager Marshall Miles yesterday morning.

The Buffalo native risks his high rating, which bids to land a title fight within a year, against the highly regarded slammer from Baie St. Anne, New Brunswick. The bout will be televised over the Dumont network from St. Nicholas Arena.

Andrews vaulted into the middle of the light heavyweight title picture a short time ago with a TKO victory over Danny Nardico, in Chicago. Paul has a three-fight winning streak on the line going into tonight's bout.

The six-foot, two-inch Andrews is currently grooming himself for a shot at Archie Moore's title.

Harry's Farm is located five miles above the new Delaware Water Gap bridge, on the New Jersey side of the river.

Reeders Keeps Playoff Hopes Alive With Nod Over Bushkill

Bushkill — Reeders kept its playoff hopes alive in the Pocono Mountains League yesterday with a convincing 12-2 verdict over Bushkill, here on the latter's home field.

The host contingent opened with a single run in the first inning and held the upper hand through the first three frames, but Reeders broke its scoring famine with four runs in the top of the fourth to take a lead it never relinquished.

Four More
Reeders bounced back with four more in the visiting half of the seventh and then finished with one tally in the eighth and three in the ninth.

George Woodling, after a rest of three weeks, came back to pitch Reeders to its eighth win in 15 outings on the strength of an eight-hitter.

THE GREEN THUMB: Paper Birch Best Grower; Spray Shrubs To Defeat Mosquitoes; Beetle Check.

BIRCH TREES: Few trees can match the beauty of these handsome plants. There are two types: The paper birch and the Gray birch. The Gray birch has white bark and several trunks coming up from the ground. It has softer wood, is subject to fungous disease and is shorter-lived than the paper birch.

Gray birch lives 20 to 30 years, the Paper birch lives twice that long. To us, the Canoe or Paper Birch is the best of all, a native to all New England, and very resistant to the bronze birch borer. Spring is the best time to plant birches.

Troubles: Birch leaf miner is very serious. This is the small worm that gets in between the tissues of leaves, causes brown blotches. Spray with Lindane, 1 teaspoonful to 2 quarts of water about June, and give two or three applications. Lindane penetrates the tissues. This treatment will kill the bronze birch borer if applied in June. This pest causes winding galleries under bark; adult beetles feed on foliage.

CANKERWORMS also chew holes in leaves, so spray for them in May. If leaves turn yellow in summer, may be due to dry weather. The European canker causes rings of dead callus. Check this fungus by cutting out dead parts or dying tops as soon as noticed. There's also the birch leaf skeletonizer which defoliates many trees. DDT, lindane, or Methoxychlor sprayed on in middle of August will check this. As a final word, all birches seem to thrive in a moist, sandy loam, altho some do well in a dry spot.

MOSQUITOES: Whether we have wet or dry weather, we still seem to have more than our share of this useless insect, the mosquito. You'll have less annoyance if you keep the shrubbery around the home sprayed with Methoxychlor. While you're at it, spray the foundation walls, under porches, etc. to keep this pest out since it hides in such places.

There are several repellents on the market, some good, some useless. An old standby is oil of citronella, but its efficiency will not continue for long. It's useful while sitting on porches or in rooms where mosquitoes are troublesome. If you want to mix up a homemade repellent use the following: Cedar oil, one ounce; oil of citronella, 3 ounces; spirits of camphor, two ounces. A few drops of this mixture will keep mosquitoes at a distance, especially when you put it on a cloth and hang it near your bed.

MEXICAN BEAN BEETLE: Want a simple way to check this pest on your beans? Try malathion, one teaspoonful to a gallon of water, and spray this on. It quickly kills the Mexican bean beetle. Do not apply it later than 10 days before harvesting the crop. Rotenone is effective also.

PURE FLINT is translucent.

Dairymen Are Invited To Field Day

BEEMERVILLE — Monroe County farmers have a special invitation to attend Grassland and Dairy Field Day at the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station's Dairy Research Farm, Aug. 17.

"We welcome dairymen and others who are our neighbors in New York and Pennsylvania," says Dr. John A. Bartlett, chairman of the Dairy Industry Department at Rutgers University.

"We think we have a particularly good show this year and we hope many will come over," Dr. Bartlett said.

On the list of attractions are an inspection of high nitrogen forage plots, pipeline milking, new uses of machinery, and others that can be seen from 9:15 until 2:30.

Picnickers will be welcome in the grove at Lusseroff, but lunches also will be served by farm organizations.

In case of rain the event will be held Aug. 18.
